DID YOU KNOW THE ONION BURGER ORIGINATED RIGHT HERE IN OKLAHOMA?

That's right! According to the book Hamburger & Fries: An American Story, in 1926, a gentleman named Ross Davis ran a restaurant called the Hamburger Inn in El Reno, Oklahoma just off of Route 66. The Great Depression ensured hamburger meat was costly, but onions were relatively cheap. Davis started smashing onions into the meat with the back of his spatula. He called them Depression burgers, and he'd put a half-onion's worth into a five-cent burger. Word spread like wildfire, and the Onion Burger became a popular staple in multiple restaurants off of the Mother Road.
